Doug Henze

When did you separate and what are you doing now?

I separated from the Army back in 2013. Since then I've become an underwater welder and am currently attending Columbia University.

Who are the people you are closest to?

The people I'm closest with are friends I've met in the Army. They've supported me while I served and through my transition back into the civilian world.

What is your proudest moment?

My proudest moment is when I completed the Ranger Indoctrination program (RIP) and received my Tan beret.

What are your goals?

My goals are to finish my undergraduate degree from Columbia and start full time in investment banking.

What do you like best about VA work study or VITAL?

What I like the most about the VA work study program is being able to help Veterans with their transition into academia. There are many benefits available to Veterans and I always enjoy educating my peers on what they are entitled to.
